

UN Votes Down Reds, Appeal Against Blast

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Bolstered by a thumping 75-10 vote of approval from the U.N. political committee, delegates pressed today for quick General Assembly action on an appeal to the Soviet Union to refrain from exploding a 50-megaton hydrogen bomb.

Denmark, one of the eight sponsors of the appeal, asked that the General Assembly give top priority to the resolution which cleared the committee after a stormy day of Soviet opposition.

Only the nine-nation Soviet bloc and Cuba voted against the appeal. Mali abstained and 15 nations—10 of them from Africa—were absent when the balloting took place.

As support for the resolution mounted, the Soviet Union and its allies finally abandoned attempts to stall off the committee vote. But Soviet Delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin indicated the Kremlin would reject the appeal, asserting maneuvers by the NATO nations would not deter the Soviet Union from perfecting its defenses.

Tsarapkin charged that in the past the United States had conducted tests of 15, 20 "and perhaps even 30-megaton bombs." He asserted that the nations who backed the resolution calling on the Soviet Union not to drop the monster bomb had kept silent during U.S. tests in the atmosphere. The resolution was sponsored by Canada, Denmark, Iceland, Japan, Norway, Pakistan and Sweden.

During the debate, delegates appealed to Moscow not to touch off the giant bomb Soviet Premier Khrushchev said last week probably would be exploded by Oct. 31.

The Security Council meanwhile finally approved U.N. membership for Communist Outer Mongolia and Mauritania, breaking a deadlock that had imperiled Nationalist China's seat in the United Nations.

The Nationalists had threatened to veto Outer Mongolia and the Soviet Union to veto Mauritania, but both lifted their threats. The applications of the two countries were sent on to the General Assembly, which is certain to admit them as the 102nd and 103rd members of the world body.

The deal admitting the two small nations was concluded after weeks of maneuvering, during which the Kennedy administration advised Chiang Kai-shek's regime that a repetition of its 1955 veto against Outer Mongolia might cause a number of U.N. members to favor Nationalist China's replacement in the U.N. by the Chinese Communists.

Alford's Pal Named L. R. Postmaster

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—C. B. McSwain, a Roland food broker, was named Wednesday as acting postmaster at Little Rock.

Postmaster General J. Edward Day announced the appointment in Washington. McSwain will be sworn in Friday to succeed Roy L. Sharpe, who has been acting postmaster since the retirement of L. C. Bellville last April.

McSwain, who managed Rep. Dale Alford's 1960 reelection campaign, was Alford's second choice for the job. Alford first picked Ed L. McKinley, Little Rock lawyer, but McKinley's recommendation was sidetracked by protests from the community.

The appointment as acting postmaster is good for six months and it may be renewed. McSwain also is eligible to take Civil Service examinations for the permanent postmastership.

McSwain's appointment was assured Sept. 30 when the Postoffice Department extended a rural route to McSwain's home near Roland would be served out of the Little Rock Postoffice. He was ineligible until he had a Little Rock address.

Autopsy Fails to Reveal Virus

FOREST CITY, Ark. (AP)—An autopsy performed in Little Rock failed Wednesday to reveal the nature of the virus which struck seven members of a Pauline family over the weekend.

Ruth Westbrook, 9, and Sherry Westbrook, 7, died of the disease. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Westbrook, a son, Johnny, 5, and two granddaughters, Verna Sue, 3, and Tommy Cook, 18 months, were stricken. All were in fair or satisfactory condition at a hospital here.

The attending physician said the autopsy confirmed that the family had contracted a virulent virus. It revealed swelling in the intestinal tract. Symptoms of the disease were acute stomach cramps and nausea. The Cook children are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Cook of Biloxi, Miss. Mrs. Cook is the Westbrook's daughter.

Arkansas' Licensed Practical Nurses Closed their annual state convention here this afternoon with the installation of new officers.

State Included in Research Plan

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Midwest Research Institute and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) announced a joint program Wednesday to encourage research in space science in six midwestern states, including Arkansas.

The agencies will work with universities and industries in the $250,000-a-year program. James E. Webb, NASA administrator, said the program is designed to bring about increased participation by university science departments in research and education in the space sciences and to stimulate industry to make use of technology resulting from space exploration.

Scientists and engineers from the research institute will visit various universities, including the University of Arkansas, to discuss their possible contributions to the space program.

President Picks a TV Adviser

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fred Coe, New York stage, film and television producer, will be President Kennedy's television adviser. The White House said today. "There is no formal relationship with Mr. Coe but he is going to help the President with future TV appearances," White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger told newsmen.

The selection had been reported by the New York Herald Tribune in a story by TV and Radio Editor Richard K. Doan. Kennedy did not have without a counterpart to Robert Montgomery, the actor-producer who served as TV adviser to former President Dwight D. Eisenhower. Doan quoted Salinger as telling him.

Texas Site for New IRS Center

WASHINGTON (AP)—Austin, Tex., was picked today as site for the Internal Revenue Service's new center for processing tax returns for Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana.

The White House, in announcing the selection, said the internal revenue commissioner, Mortimer M. Caplin, estimates the Austin center eventually will employ from 1,100 to 1,500 persons. Many of them are expected to transfer from other internal revenue offices in the five-state region.

The center will start processing tax returns in January, 1964. However, it will be put into operation on a preliminary basis a year earlier with a small staff.

Once in full operation, the center's annual payroll is expected to reach $4.8 million.

A building with about 150,000 square feet of floor space will be needed for the center. The obtaining of a building will be up to the General Services Administration.

Philippines Bury President

MANILA (AP)—A hush fell over the center of usually boisterous Manila today as the flag-draped body of former President Sergio Osmena was borne to interment. Hundreds of thousands lined the 2.5-mile route.

Osmena, vice president of the Philippine Commonwealth from its creation in 1935 and president from 1944 until independence in 1946, died of heart and kidney ailments a week ago at the age of 83.

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Arkansas Tech was one of the colleges which received votes in the weekly poll of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for the nation's outstanding small college football team.

Pittsburg (Kan.) State took the top place. The number of votes Arkansas Tech received was not announced. It was not enough to place it in the first 10.

Turks Name Army General President

ANKARA, Turkey (AP)—Gen. Cemal Gursel, chief of the military junta that overthrew ex-Premier Adnan Menderes, was elected president of Turkey today.

A 101 gun salute greeted news that the 67-year-old general had been elected to a seven-year term as president by the new national parliament, which convened for the first time Wednesday.

Gursel, the only candidate for the post, got 434 votes of a possible 607. His winning margin was 30 votes higher than the required two-thirds majority.

The other ballots: 156 blank, 13 for three unavowed candidates and 4 invalid.

Gursel took the oath as president immediately after the vote was announced.

The army general staff intervened Monday in the critical situation produced by the indecisive national election of Oct. 15 and ordered the four contending parties to accept Gursel as president, and to agree to form a national front government.

Gursel is regarded as a pro-Western moderate who has not hesitated to purge fellow members of the ruling military junta when they tried to adopt extremist methods.

Motors Have Advanced on Market

NEW YORK (AP)—Motors advanced as the stock market continued a recovery in moderate trading early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .70 at 258.30 with industrials up 1.00, rails up .10 and utilities up .40.

Gains of most key stocks were narrow. A few of the higher priced issues which have been making strides recently were down on profit taking.

Gains in retail auto sales accompanied the rise of motor stocks.

Aircraftmissile stocks and machine tools improved. A slightly higher trend prevailed among chemicals, drugs, rails and airlines.

Ford and General Motors, the later reporting third quarter earnings steady despite a drop in sales, climbed early a point each.

Union Carbide and DuPont were up about a point. Amerasia rose around 2 and Texaco a point or so.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .16 at 700.80. Prices were generally higher on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were firm. U.S. government bonds were unchanged in light dealings over the counter.

Nuclear Tests Are Completed

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Tests of the Tory II A-1 reactor, designed to prove nuclear ramjet propulsion is possible for missiles, have been completed, an Atomic Energy Commission spokesman said Wednesday.

The next step in Project Pluto is development of the larger Tory II C reactor for tests under full power. Bids already have been asked for expanding the facility at the Nevada test site 65 miles north of here.

Atomic Blast for Peace to Be Expensive

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government has placed a $5.5-million price tag on a planned underground nuclear explosion to launch a new search for peaceful uses of atomic power.

President Kennedy approved plans for the pioneer blast in a salt shaft, some 1,200 feet below the surface, among the salt beds of New Mexico, about 25 miles southeast of Carlsbad.

The Atomic Energy Commission said the blast probably would be set off during the second week of December and that its power would be five kilotons, equivalent to the power of 5,000 tons of TNT. That is about one-fourth the force of the atomic bombs dropped on Japan in World War II.

This would be the first blast in the AEC "Plowshare" program, which has as its objective the evolution of peaceful uses for atomic explosives. Preparations have been under way since March 1960. The test will be designed as "Gnome."

The shaft was built over the past year at a cost of a million dollars.

Asked whether other Gnome tests were planned, the AEC spokesman said it would depend upon what scientists find out in the initial blast. He estimated it would take about a year for full evaluation.

The White House said scientists of all interested U.N. members, including the Soviet Union, would be permitted to be on hand for the test.

Escape Capsule Test Is Made

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—A new escape capsule was rocketed from a B50 Hustler bomber Wednesday.

The ejection was the first aerial test in a series using life-size dummies. The goal is protection for fliers who bail out at supersonic speeds.

The Air Force Flight Test Center said the steel cocoon was shot, with two rockets, from a B58 flying 43 miles per hour at 20,000 feet. It landed eight minutes later by parachute.

Examination showed a crewman would have survived without injury, officials said.

Communists Back Down in Show of Force

By JOHN FIEHN

BERLIN (AP)—U.S. troops today moved across the border into East Berlin for the second straight day to reassert the right of Americans to move unimpeded.

The East German police closed the Friedrichstrasse crossing, but reopened it when calm was restored. U.S. tanks provided a backdrop for the convoy across the dividing line but were withdrawn later.

The situation flared up and died down in less than an hour.

The Friedrichstrasse crossing, known as "Checkpoint Charlie," to GIs, went back to normal and was again open to traffic by non-Germans. It is the only crossing between East and West Berlin that is left for the use of Americans and other foreigners.

The day's main incident at the checkpoint began when an American, driving a blue sedan with U.S. Army license plates, drove up unescorted seeking admittance to East Berlin. The East German police refused to admit him unless he identified himself, and he declined to do that.

It was plain the unidentified American had been sent up to the border as a further test of the rights American authorities claim for movement about the city.

When the driver came back, three U.S. Army jeeps, carrying American Military Policemen joined him for another try.

The East German police stood aside to let this military group and the sedan go by.

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH

BERLIN (AP)—The Communists pulled the noose a bit tighter today on Allied traffic into East Berlin and turned back an American Army car because a passenger in civilian clothes refused to show his identity papers to the East German police.

The Army sedan belonged to the military police. It had a uniformed MP driver and passenger in civilian clothes. The East German police stopped the car on their side of the barrier and it returned to the West after 20 minutes of argument.

Although Allied civilians in Army-licensed private cars have been turned back repeatedly in the past week because they would not show identity papers, the East German guards previously allowed military cars with civilian passengers to pass if a uniformed soldier was at the wheel.

During the morning several other official U.S. Army staff sedans had passed in and out of the East sector without a hitch.

But a French car bearing official number plates turned back rather than submit to an identity check. In it were a driver in civilian clothes and a man in a blue French army uniform.

A British military car with civilian and military occupants passed through without trouble.

The Allies appeared to be trying out various combinations of passengers to test out East Berlin police reactions. Why the British car carrying civilians was waved through without a challenge while the Americans and French ran into difficulties was not clear.

Maj. Gen. Albert Watson II, the U.S. military commander in the divided city Wednesday night asked Washington for new instructions after his Soviet counterpart insisted the Allies would have to recognize the Communist East German regime as the controlling power in East Berlin.

Poultry One Best Buys at Markets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Various cuts of beef continue to lead the bargain list in many supermarket and neighborhood grocery stores this week, although turkeys and broiling or frying chickens offer strong competition.

The steady run of beef bargains reflects commercial production in August and September running slightly above a year ago. This production picture is expected to continue for the rest of the year.

Poultry price specialists seem most plentiful in the southwest and Midwest. Broilers and fryers are slightly higher in some markets.

Meat experts suggest the long-term trend is likely to be higher for turkeys, since farmers are cutting back production sharply because of low prices.

Round and chuck roast are the top beef cuts in the northeast, while steaks get a play in the southeast and some loin cuts are down 2 to 5 cents a pound in the Los Angeles area.

Bacon also is a prime item on the west coast, with prices off 2 to 5 cents a pound. Wholesale prices on bellies (from which bacon is cut) have been dropping recently.

Eggs remain a good buy, too, with some sizes down 3 to 5 cents a dozen around San Francisco and New York prices running 12 to 14 cents a dozen less than a year ago after slight cuts this week.

Best buys among vegetables are cabbage, cauliflower, onions, potatoes, sweet potatoes, carrots and squash. In the Southeast Florida sweet corn is still attractively priced, too.

Other good buys included tomatoes, snap beans, lettuce, peppers, cucumbers, celery and broccoli.

Seasonal specialties include turnips, rutabagas and spinach.

With hallowe'en almost here pumpkins are especially plentiful and prices are generally low.

There are many bargains in assorted types of cheese.

Top fruit buys appear to be apples, oranges, grapes and grapefruit. Pears and melons are good buys, too, while the cranberry crop is expected to be large.

Health Group to Air Ways of Protection

By FRANK CAREY

Associated Press Science Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — Health officers from every state meet here today in an extraordinary session designed largely to consider protective measures that might be taken if nuclear fallout reached acute proportions.

The two-day meeting, called by the Public Health Service, brings together about 100 federal, state and local health officers. The sessions are closed to newsmen.

Dr. Francis Weber, chief of the service's radiological health division, said there was no cause now for serious concern. He added that while information still was lacking about fallout effects of the Soviet Union's big nuclear blast of last Monday, any significant hazard springing from the current Soviet test series probably would not arise until next spring.

Then, most of the fallout from all the Soviet tests, now lodged in the stratosphere, will begin to drop toward the earth.

It cannot be stated as yet, Weber said in an interview, that there would be a serious hazard even in the spring.

The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission has announced 24 Soviet nuclear blasts—23 in the atmosphere and one under water—since Moscow resumed nuclear testing Sept. 1. The AEC reported Monday's Soviet blast possibly had the punch of a 50-megaton explosion, but more likely was in the 30 megaton range.

Today's session is aimed at drafting possible protective "countermeasures," ranging even to possible condemnation of certain food supplies if that should become necessary.

"There's certainly no need to introduce any such stringent measure now," Weber said. And, he added, "I can't say whether any would ever be needed."

And he stressed that, in considering measures to protect the public from taking in with food potentially dangerous quantities of radioactive materials, every possible alternative—short of actual condemnation of food—would be studied and evaluated.

For example, he said, fresh milk unduly contaminated with radioactive iodine might be stored at low temperatures—without freezing it—until the iodine, which has a comparatively short radioactive life, lost its radiation.

Or, he said, consideration might be given to converting fresh milk to powdered form, or converting it to cheese and other dairy products so that children would still get their nutritionally valuable intake of calcium.

Man in Orbit by December

BRYAN, Tex. (AP) — A Texas congressman says the United States will have a man in orbit by December and men on the moon by 1969.

Rep. Olin E. Teague, D-Tex., said Tuesday in a speech that the time table calls for the United States to send three men to the moon in a capsule by 1969.

Teague, a member of the Space Committee, said the tentative date for the United States to put a man in orbit around the earth is Dec. 5.

In Washington, an official of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration declined to comment.

Alford Again

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) — Rep. Dale Alford, D-Ark., criticized foreign aid to neutral nations Tuesday on grounds that this country cannot be sure how the neutrals will line up in a showdown. Alford addressed the Fort Smith Lions Club.

Alford said he was not sure how the neutrals will line up in a showdown. Alford addressed the Fort Smith Lions Club.

Something Missing in Her Marriage!

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: Twelve years ago I married a fine, decent boy. I was 18. He 20. A baby came the first year and we were fairly happy, though poor. When that child was four I had another baby. Then along the way something went wrong.

My husband is good, kind and generous but he takes me for granted. Rarely do I rate a compliment in his eyes.

Other men do find me attractive and that is my weakness. They make me feel I am the most important thing in their lives. The thrill of knowing someone is thinking of me, even willing to risk his good name for my sake, means a great deal in my otherwise drab life.

These men, and there have been several, are outstanding in our community. I fall over heels in love and—out again, just as suddenly. My excuse is that my husband is gone a great deal. I think up household chores to keep me busy. I read, I look at television but that isn't enough. I tried helping with church work and other community projects. But that hasn't been the answer.

About a year ago I had another baby. After it came I was content for a while. I thought this the answer. But here I am, again in the same situation. My current lover is a good man and I don't want to hurt his life in any way, not to mention what I'm doing to myself and my husband. I have tried to put on the brakes, but I can't. As I say, I'm weak. I've tried to tell my husband something was missing in our lives but he didn't have time to listen. His only reply was that I have a car and can go where and when I please. What more do I want.

He works hard, is outstanding in church, community and business, handsome, a good provider and thinks our marriage successful. He has very strong personality. I am shy and reserved. There is nothing I do unusually well. If he ever found out any of this he would divorce me and, I live in constant fear of him discovering the truth. You'd think that would stop me, but it doesn't. Please help! —Confused.

Dear Confused: If the truth were told I am sure there are thousands of women in the same boat. I know many personally whose story could be a carbon copy of yours; attractive wives of successful husbands with apparently every reason to be happy and yet, even with children, they have no real marriage for the simple reason that husband and wife live in separate worlds.

The trouble is that you and your husband spend too little time together. Marriage requires teamwork. Husband and wife must share hopes, fears, joys, sorrows and dreams, if theirs is to be a mutual benevolence... who wishes successful marriage. Tell your husband so, if you have to corner him at the office.

Make him listen for his own sake. Know yourself. These numerous affairs may be an attempt to prove your sophistication while in truth, you're as immature as a teen age vamp. You and your husband need the opportunity to become re-acquainted. Take a second honeymoon and go to a country you've never seen before. Share new experiences. Leave the children at home. Much as you may love them you and he have your rights as individuals. Primary among these is the right of marital companionship. Cultivate the art and you will no longer seek greener pastures.

Dear Helen: This question involves two university boys, one of whom has a car. Until recently they were close friends. Every week the owner of the car took his chum driving. As a rule, but not always, the chum treated his host to dinner though never once offered to pay for the gas. The car owner felt the other boy should share expenses and, when he didn't, terminated their friendship. Was he justified? —Inquisitive.

Dear Inquisitive: On the basis of what you tell me the owner of the car was not justified. But, as far as that goes, being the peacemaker he apparently was, the friendship never really existed so there was nothing to terminate. No real friend ever rings up the cash register. By the same token the other boy was no friend if he failed in his social obligations. I would like Webster's definition of a friend: One joined to another in and dreams, if theirs is to be a mutual benevolence... who wishes es another well.

Note to Miss T., New Haven, Conn.: Don't be so serious. If the boy you ditched really cared he'd come back. Let him do the seeking. Going with Second Fiddle doesn't commit you for life. Steer clear of heart-to-heart talks with him or any other boy unless you are both in earnest.

Send your problems to Helen Worden Erskine. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and address her care of this newspaper. Helpful leaflets available. Write for "The Ideal Husband."

Eligibility on Nat'l Scale Seen

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - The day may not be far off when national uniform eligibility requirements will govern college sports.

"We are working on tests that will give us a picture of how a player should do scholastically," said NCAA Executive Director Walter Byers today. "I don't know when they'll be perfected, but it shouldn't be too long."

The NCAA's policymaking 18-man council ended its regular fall meeting Wednesday, and one of the resolutions it passed called for the setting of minimum eligibility rules for all colleges.

Robert F. Ray of Iowa State is the chairman of the committee that is looking into the matter. It probably won't have a report available for the NCAA convention next Jan. 11-13 in Chicago, but by then it probably will have made considerable progress.

"This, of course, has nothing to do with admissions," said Byers. "That is strictly for the colleges to decide. But eligibility for athletes does fall in our sphere and we would like to work out something."

The three-day meeting produced some definite action by the council in regard to its feud with the AAU over the administration of basketball and its attempts to keep collegians away from gamblers.

The council approved a proposed United States Basketball Federation of which it would be a member. The AAU also would be a member with reduced say, but already has rejected the idea.

It also tightened its hold on the basketball players with the latest outbreak of scandals last March in mind. The main move was to ban all outside basketball competition by the college players.

Rail's Plight May Appear as a Test

By ROGER LANE

NEW YORK (AP) - The financial plight of Eastern railroads appeared today on its way to becoming a testing ground for state governors aspiring to greater influence in national affairs.

If this develops, it could result in important new exposure to a nationwide audience for GOP New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, widely credited with White House ambitions in 1964.

Ten governors who heard railroad men spell out their woes and appeal for help in solving them took no direct action Wednesday. But their spokesman vowed not to let the matter drop.

Instead, Gov. Wesley Powell of New Hampshire, chairman of the National Governors' Conference, said he plans steps to give the 50 state leaders a voice in the fate of any solution recommended by President Kennedy next year.

The resident said he will offer in January a prescription for the ills of the transport industry generally. It is generally conceded that the root of the trouble lies in national policy, or the lack of it, rather than on the state level.

Porkers Likely Have Breather, They Need It

By WICK TEMPLE
Associated Press Sports Writer

If any team ever needed a breather, it's the Arkansas Razorbacks. After a murderer's row of Texas Christian, Baylor and Texas, the Porkers deserve a rest, but that's not exactly what they'll get Saturday night against Northwest Louisiana State.

They shouldn't have any trouble winning, but Frank Broyles is going to try to rid the Hogs of the losing blues they got in a 33-7 loss to Texas last week.

Northwest Louisiana State is 6-0 for the season and beat Louisiana Tech last week 19-7. Louisiana Tech beat Arkansas State 48-7 earlier. Certainly Northwest is one of the better small college teams in this section, but not in Arkansas' class.

It's meant to be a breather, and that's what it is.

Here's the week's forecasting: ARKANSAS 21, Northwest Louisiana 12. The Thunderin' Third should get its best workout of the season.

ARKANSAS STATE 26, Murray, Ky. State 7. The Indians should be ready for a big explosion after three straight losses. And Murray (3-3) is one of the softer spots on a tough schedule.

ARKANSAS TECH 13, Southeast Oklahoma 0. It might be a slow week for the Wonder Boys after their big effort against Teachers' STATE TEACHERS 27, Southern State 14. A good one and Southern has a chance at an upset, especially after Teachers' loss to Tech.

OUACHITA 19, Ozarks 6. One of Ozarks' better showings.

HENDERSON 20, Arkansas A&M 7. Henderson has been off-and-on, but A&M hasn't arrived. HARDING 21, Livingston, Ala. 0. Livingston beat Ozarks by only 137.

Fishing Around Arkansas Lakes

LITTLE ROCK (AP) - Here is a fishing forecast from the Arkansas Game and Fish Commission: Lake Maumelle: Water clear and low. All fishing poor on all bait.

Lake Conway: Water clear and 5.4 feet low on drawdown. All fishing fair.

Lake Catherine: Water clear and normal. Bass fair on artificial bait and large minnows.

Lake Ouachita: Water condition good. All fishing poor.

Lake Hamilton: Water conditions good. Bass poor to fair. Crappie poor. Bream fair to good on crickets and worms.

Lake Bull Shoals: Bream good on jigs and eels, fair late afternoon on top water bait.

Lake Norfork: Water clear. Black bass fair to good on jigs, eels, plastic worms and crayfish. White bass fair to good at night on minnows. Crappie fair trolling with artificial bait and minnows.

Lake Greason: No report.

SWC Teams Prepare for Each Other

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Texas A&M, upset 15-14 by Texas Christian last Saturday, will have a new look when it plays Baylor this week.

Coach Jim Myers promoted Sam Byers, the Aggie's leading ground gainer in 1960, to the first string backfield Wednesday. Four second stringer backs, who have accounted for 15 of the Aggies' 17 touchdowns this season, are now on the first unit. The others are quarterback John Erickson, and halfbacks Jim Linnstaedter and Travis Reagan.

Earlier this week Myers moved five second string linemen to the No. 1 unit.

The Aggies worked out on a muddy field Wednesday and concentrated on pass offense and defense.

Baylor worked on its ground game, particularly on sharpening its goal line punch, held a dummy scrimmage and reviewed at length its passing game.

Sophomore Weidman Price moved to the No. 2 center spot. Ailing centers Butch Mages and Kenneth Hays are expected to see only limited service against A&M.

Both Texas and Rice will be bothered by injuries for their game. Texas' first string center David Kristynik and guards Marvin Rubin and Johnny Treadwell missed Wednesday's workouts.

Filling in for them were center Perry McWilliams and guards George Brucks and Bobby Garlin. Second string guard David McWilliams also is injured. Coach Darrell Royal drilled the team on pass offense and defense and punt protection.

Coach Jess Neely of Rice held another no-contact drill for his first team, saying "we aren't in the best shape. Dr. Hugh Welsh described the team's many injuries as 'nothing real serious but just annoying injuries that take time to heal.'"

Center Dan Mallin missed the workout and is a doubtful starter. Johnny Cole is likely to fill in for him. Other injured are tackles John Cornett and Ray Albort, guard Dickie Woods and halfback Jerry Chandler. Guard Walt Ligonis is lost for the season.

Texas Tech drilled on defense against the wide plays it expects Southern Methodist to use. Kicking and passing under pressure were stressed. Coach J. T. King said guards Walter Rankin and Richard Ellis will miss the game and halfback Dick Polson is a doubtful starter.

SMU concentrated on its aerial attack, with quarterbacks Jerry Rhome, Roger Braugh and Harold Morgan doing the passing. The Ponies are expected to be at full strength.

Texas Christian, with an open date Saturday, held a light workout. It worked on defense for the game with Baylor Nov. 4.

Arkansas worked briskly on fundamentals, but avoided heavy contact to give bruises suffered in last Saturday's 33-7 loss to Texas time to heal. Coach Frank Broyles said he noticed improvement, especially in the play of linebackers. Arkansas plays unbeat Northwest Louisiana in Little Rock Saturday night.

Station Approved

Communications Commission approved the assignment of the license for radio station KBLO at Hot Springs, Ark., to George T. Herneich for $18,025 Wednesday.

Iowa State Back Just a Natural

College Football Rdp Sports
By JACK CLARY

If anyone in the professional ranks is looking for a triggerman for a shotgun offense, contact Dave Hoppman of Iowa State sometime after Jan. 1, 1963. This guy is a natural.

He is the tailback in Coach Clay Stapleton's single wing offense, which means he handles the ball on most offensive plays.

As a sophomore last year, the 6 foot 1, 179 pounder from Madison, Wis., lead the Big Eight in rushing with 844 yards, which was also an Iowa State record. However, in 1960 he had fullback Tom Watkins for company and the two made a dynamic pair.

With Watkins gone this year, Hoppman has had to fight off the charges of a pair of talented sophomores, Ozzie Clay and Dave Hoover. Maybe this pair inspired him, for he has gained 750 yards in five games, 446 rushing and 304 passing as the Cyclones have won three of the five.

He scored both touchdowns in a 14-7 victory over Oklahoma State and gained 113 yards in a 21-15 victory over Oklahoma, during which Clay scored twice and Hoover once.

Now with Clay sidelined for the year with a knee injury and Hoover as his relief, Hoppman will be called on to do even more.

And how much more can a person do if he is already ranked fourth nationally in individual total offense and fifth in rushing offense?

Kansas State will get the answer this weekend when it faces the Cyclones.

Michigan State, the nation's No. 1 team, is almost sure of not having the services of centers Mike Currie and Tom Jordan, and defensive specialist Rocky Ryan against Indiana in its Big Ten game this week.

Iowa's Hawkeyes, early season favorites for the Big Ten title, lost quarterback Wilburn Hollis for the season. Hollis broke a bone in his wrist in the Hawkeyes' second game.

Coach Milt Bruhn of Wisconsin indicated that he may alternate quarterbacks Ron Miller and John Fabry in Saturday's nationally televised game against Ohio State.

Porkers Ready for Louisianians

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) - The Arkansas Razorbacks' end preparations today for their first real breather in two years.

A light conditioning drill is scheduled. The Porkers depart Friday for Hot Springs where they will spend the night. They go on to Little Rock Saturday to meet Northwest Louisiana in a night game.

Coach Frank Broyles drilled the Hogs on fundamentals again Wednesday, but there was little contact work in the session. Arkansas hasn't knocked at all this week so that bruises collected in last week's 33-7 loss to Texas can heal.

Broyles has refused to discuss injuries, but no key player is believed seriously hurt.

Northwest Louisiana has a 6-0 record against small college opposition. The Demons aren't expected to extend the Razorbacks.

Cats Lodged at Bottom of Conference

There were not many changes in the Division 4AA Conference standings from games last week, but some changes could be made from games of this week. Only one league game was played last week while three contests will be played Friday night.

The Magnolia Panthers recorded their first league win of the season last week by downing Hope 14 to 7. In non league play Camden defeated Pine Bluff 20-7; Smackover downed Hot Springs 13-6; Fairview romped over Bearden 34-0 and Malvern lost to Jacksonville 24-12.

Games this week: Hope at Camden; Fairview at Magnolia; Smackover at Crossett and Malvern at Russellville.

Smackover's Joe Black continues to lead the individual scorers with 75 points, followed by George McCarty of Camden with 67, Jim Homan of Malvern leads the extra point makers with 12 followed by Tommy Burton of Fairview with 11 and Black with 9.

Smackover is the leading total offense team with 1,955 yards followed by Malvern with 1,884 yds.

Camden is the total defensive leader yielding 1,316, followed by Fairview with 1,373 yards.

Fashion Now Geared for 'The Twist'

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The American fashion industry is already geared for "the Twist."

Designs for next spring's apparel for women were on the drawing boards weeks before the body gyrating, footsliding dance became a craze.

Yet buyers dodging their way through the push cart jammed garment district shopping the spring market this week found plenty of fashion stock for courageous, loose-jointed ladies who will probably learn "the Twist."

Adelle Simpson was quick to dub one of her many-tiered crepe gowns as appropriate for the required serpentine movement. Luis Esteves, with romantic little costumes tacked together in flutery layers of material, did not hesitate to point out their "twist-ability" to his buying public.

Bill Blass' ruffly numbers for the Maurice Rentner design house were naturals for emphasizing the convolutions of the jazz dance.

For the young, informal crowd Ann Klein provided a sugarcoated kind of dance dress called Bon-Bon. A variety of Miss Klein's little black and white crepe costumes included skirts that were doublepleated, bias-cut, knife-pleated—skirts that could take plenty of frenetic leg action of the dance.

For the woman who wants a good excuse for sitting this crazy out, Miss Klein has designed some sleeveless dresses with super slim skirts and uperblousy tops. They are too narrow for action but far too pretty to be a wallflower dresses.

Can't Close Depot

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Circuit Judge Guy Amsler Monday upheld a state Commerce Commission ruling which denied the Louisiana and Arkansas Railroad permission to close its depot at Taylor in Columbia County. The railroad asked two years ago to be allowed to close the depot in the town, which has a population of 734.

Breakfast Battle

"I don't want any breakfast!"

This cry will not be an unfamiliar one this month to the mother preparing her five or six year old for the first days of school. According to Dr. Benjamin Spock, child care expert, the problem of the child who can't or won't eat breakfast crops up every year just about this time. It's particularly prevalent among youngsters in the first and second grades at the beginning of the school year.

The importance of a good breakfast, particularly for the five or six year old, is stressed by most nutrition scientists. It's at this age that nutrition habits are formed, and then maintained throughout later life.

Studies show that a child who constantly skips breakfast does not make up at other meals for the nutrients he misses in the morning. Children who do not eat breakfast, according to Dr. Miriam Lowenberg of the College of Home Economics at Pennsylvania State University, appear to do less well in school, perform physical tasks poorly and are more irritable and emotionally unstable.

But what about the "problem child" who is so overly excited about school that he can't or won't eat breakfast? As a temporary measure, Dr. Spock advises mothers to let the child alone and even go to school without food. It's not a good idea for a child to regularly start the day hungry; but after he adjusts to school routine, he will gradually become hungrier at breakfast time. And, if he has not had too bad a struggle with his mother, he'll be able to eat properly again, Dr. Spock says.

What can mothers do to start the day off right for a child just entering school (and for the other members of the family as well)? Here are some tips which can be followed:

- Create a pleasant atmosphere at the breakfast table. The start of the day should be fun for all the family.
- Build the breakfast around a well-balanced menu containing an egg or bacon and milk for protein, enriched bread or cereal for B vitamins and energy, a pat of butter or margarine for vitamin A, and a serving of citrus fruit or juice for vitamin C. If the child resists the daily serving of bacon or eggs, Dr. Lowenberg recommends that you try substituting a hamburger on an enriched bun, a toasted cheese sandwich or a ham sandwich.
- Protect your child against vitamin shortages in the diet. A multiple vitamin tablet such as Choclo is designed with children's flavor and color tastes in mind.
- Don't be overly concerned with the quantity of food your child eats. Make sure what he does eat has nutritive value.

Freedom in Congo Results in Chaos

EDITOR'S NOTE — What has happened to life in the Congo amid the chaos that came in the wake of independence won 16 months ago. This revealing dispatch, last in a series of three on the Congo today, tells what has happened to the economy and the people.

By LYNN HEINZERLING

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—The jacaranda and frangipani trees are bursting into gorgeous blossoms, but not much else is blooming in the Congo.

Leopoldville today is a city where the fragrance of tropical spring flowers blends with odors from a decaying sewage system. It is a city where a few Congolese skim past in shining limousines and thousands are without jobs. As in so many other recently freed African colonies, a new affluent class of government employees is being formed.

The reconciliation between the Communist supported Stanleyville regime of Antoine Gizenga and the Leopoldville government is hardly skin deep. The hearts that harbor hopes of peace are matched by others hardened by tribal distrust and political hate.

A slow deterioration is reported from other provinces. In Stanleyville, diplomatic reports say, water and light facilities are faulty. Garbage collection and street cleaning have been practically abandoned.

In Kivu and Equator provinces the larger plantations are beginning to resume operations, but smaller ones are being slowly throttled by jungle vegetation. In Equator, it is reported, the seed rice has been eaten and there cannot be another harvest until 1963.

The central government continues to live on borrowed money. Its deficit runs about $16 million monthly. A good deal of this money goes to pay salaries to government employees, including the army. The Congolese have waited a long time to reach the white man's standards of living and they want it all at once.

What they are seeing instead is a sharp increase in wealth and living standards for a few thousand Congolese employed by the government and the same old shacks and dirt roads for themselves. Something of the same development is taking place in other newly independent countries of Africa such as Ghana, Guinea, Nigeria and former French colonies. United Nations figures show that wages for Africans employed by the central government and provincial administrations (excepting Katanga) in 1959 were about 11 per cent of the total national income. In 1961, the first full year of independence, these wages will represent at least 31 per cent of the total national income.

There are some signs of improvement, but everything in the Congo depends on the tense political situation. As a nation, the old Belgian colony cannot survive unless Katanga with its immense copper profits comes back into the fold.

White, mostly Belgians, have been pouring back into the country and they may succeed in giving impetus to the economy. Stanleyville, once down to a few score whites, now has approximately 1,000. Before independence there were 4,000 Europeans in Stanleyville.

In Leopoldville, hotels are crammed and some are forcing patrons to double up in their rooms. Many of the old villas and apartments have been taken over by newly rich Congolese. Belgians hesitate before moving into suburban homes too far from police protection. Villas outside Leopoldville have been subjected to repeated burglaries.

River traffic on the Congo, once blocked because of the feud between the Gizenga government in Stanleyville and the central government, is again in operation. The first cargoes of tin have moved down the river to Leopoldville and on by rail to Matadi. Agriculture is lagging far behind.

Mareel Bisukuru, minister of foreign trade and a leftwing Lumumba follower, has described the trade situation as tragic. He reported in a recent survey that the Congo in the first six months of 1961 exported only 2,300 tons of cotton compared with 27,600 tons during the same period of 1960—before independence.

United Nations economists are concerned about another phase of Congo economy. Almost all business concerns, except for smaller establishments, are in the hands of Belgians and other non-Congolese. The Congolese have difficulty accumulating capital to participate in the business life of the country.

One economist said that while the Congo won political independence it was completely colonized economically.

Reds Trying to Build Up Nuclear Subs

By ELTON C. FAY

AP Military Affairs Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Soviet underwater nuclear test indicates the Soviet Union is making a major effort to counter the mounting force of U.S. Polaris submarines. The report by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission that a relatively low-powered nuclear explosion was set off under water south of the arctic island of Novaya Zemlya was overshadowed by the rest of the AEC announcement.

That was that the U.S.S.R. also had detonated in the atmosphere over the Novaya area a nuclear device of very high yield, possibly as much as 50 megatons but more probably on the order of 30 megatons.

About the same time, the Soviet defense minister issued a statement that "the problem of destroying rockets in flight has been solved successfully." The ambiguous phrasing of Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky left in doubt his exact meaning.

But there could be little doubt about the significance of the two other Soviet experiments.

The big bomb is intended as an offensive weapon to intimidate the West with the prospect of mass destruction.

But underwater nuclear weapons and antimissile missiles — if indeed the latter have been developed by the Soviets — are designed to repel retaliatory strikes which the United States promises to unleash if the Soviet Union makes war.

The danger from submarine launched missiles looms large for the U.S.S.R.

At least four atomic-powered Polaris submarines are on station within range of Russian targets. Deputy Secretary of Defense Roswell Gilpatric said last Saturday that six such submarines were at sea, armed with 96 missiles. One or two of them may be en route or getting ready to head for stations off the northwest European coast. Eventually, 10 Polaris boats will be assigned to the missile watch.

The underwater test Monday was a trial of an antissubmarine warfare weapon — such as the U.S.S.R. would include in a strike against the Polaris fleet in event of war.

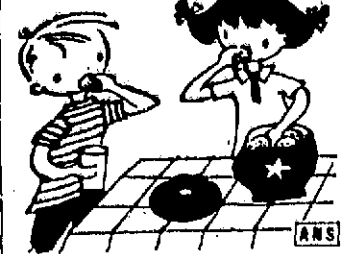

In the antissubmarine nuclear weapon field, the Soviet Union appears to be substantially behind the U.S. program. Atomic depth charges now are part of the U.S. Navy arsenal.

The first underwater experiment was made by American atomic weaponers 15 years ago. Navy antissubmarine weapons include depth charges for dropping from aircraft as well as ship-launched charges.

The Soviet claim of having solved the problem of destroying rockets in flight was more difficult of analysis. The first question was the kind of rockets Malinovsky was talking about. If there were comparatively short-range tactical rockets, flying at slow speed compared with intercontinental ballistic missiles, the announcement might not be startling. The U. S. Army has been testing antimissile rockets against other rockets for some time. But if Malinovsky was claiming

Margaret Is Expecting

LONDON (AP) — Princess Margaret's baby is expected within the next two weeks.

"Sometime during the next fortnight," said a royal press officer, "I mean either side of the end of October."

Sister Helen Rowe, the 62-year-old royal midwife who assisted in the birth of Queen Elizabeth's three children, has come to London from her home in Eastbourne to be ready when needed for Margaret.

The baby will be born at Clarence House, Margaret's home, with Queen Mother Elizabeth before her marriage last year to Anthony Armstrong-Jones, now the Earl of Snowdon.

But the princess is still living in their apartment at Kensington Palace, and a royal spokesman said he did not know when she would move.

When the princess shifts to Clarence House, she will live in a large square white-painted room at the top of the building.

Another room of the house has been set aside as a delivery room. Margaret was 31 in August.

that the Soviet Union had found a way of destroying or neutralizing an ICBM warhead, this was another matter.

The U.S. Army has been working on that project since 1955. It now has reached the point of waiting for a test, probably about next summer, of the Nike-Zeus antimissile missile against Atlas ICBMs and permission to produce some components of the weapon before full tests are completed.

Man Without Country Not by Choice

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — The Rev. Mina E. Mina is a man without a country—not by choice, but by circumstance. His wife and three children are in the same predicament.

An Egyptian, the Rev. Mr. Mina now is associate minister of Jackson's First Congregational church. His wife is Chinese.

Their plight began five years ago when they met on the campus of Bethel College at Newton, Kan., where both were studying on scholarships. Romance blossomed into marriage.

The Rev. Mr. Mina (pronounced meen-ah) came to the United States in 1953 to study chemical engineering and planned to return to Egypt in 1956. Mrs. Mina fled the Chinese mainland to Formosa in 1949 and came to the United States in 1954.

With student visas running out and the prospects of being returned to separate homelands, the couple started steps to gain citizenship.

Rules governing admission of foreign students provide that a student who attempts to gain citizenship here violates his or her status and is subject to deportation on 15 days' notice.

"We were pretty insecure," the minister said, "having no status either as Americans, Egyptians or Chinese and not knowing what would happen."

Four times immigration authorities told the Minas their time was up, but they managed to avoid deportation. Only last month a Minnesota congressman managed to obtain permanent residency status for the Minas.

Now after five years they will be eligible for citizenship.

Mina, reared a Christian in the Coptic Church, turned from a planned career in chemical en-

History Not Always Good TV Program

Television in Review By FRED DANZIG United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Good history doesn't always make for a good TV drama. Case in point: "The Dispossessed."

Saul Levitt's play, aired by CBS-TV Tuesday night as part of the "Westinghouse Presents" series, was based on a civil rights case in the Nebraska of 1879. The

Mrs. Mina was reared a Christian, also, in the United Christian Church of China. Her parents came to the United States in 1958.

This Cat Was Real Trouble

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — A dog freed Jakob Ster's cat Tuesday and sat down to wait for the cat to flee.

The cat leaped onto Ster's roof, the roof collapsed and the cat tumbled into a well.

Ster grabbed a rope, tied it to the wheel at the top of the well and started lowering himself down to rescue the cat. The wheel broke loose and Ster, 29, drowned.

Escapee Returned to Hospital

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Bert Clayton, State Hospital security officer, reported today James E. Littleton who escaped from the hospital Tuesday afternoon was returned several hours later.

Clayton said Littleton, 54, of Hot Springs, was located near the hospital grounds after an unidentified person notified officers.

Clayton said Littleton was returned to his ward.

It was the second time Littleton had fled the institution. He was recaptured in August shortly after making an escape.

Phone Co. Loan

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Magazine Telephone Co., of Magazine got Arkansas Public Service Commission approval Tuesday of a $30,000 loan proposal. Most of the money will go to extend the telephone system to 100 new customers.

case involved a young lawyer's fight, over federal opposition, to establish the principle that the 14th Amendment applied to Indians. That Indians were, in law as in fact, people, and that they could, if they chose, leave the reservation.

Opposition to these principles, as organized by Levitt's script, was halfhearted. Everyone seemed too willing to help the Indians win. This attitude, while commendable in practice, made for a plodding show. The element of conflict was minimized. The proceedings were reduced to a series of flat, hurried, loud, legally couched brotherhood of man orations. The flutter that comes with triumph was missing at the finish.

Of course, the trouble with placing a battle for human dignity in a courtroom arena for part of a mere one-hour TV play is that the characters get to display some slick Perry Mason type legal footwork but flesh and blood dialogue, meaning and behavior gets lost if the playwright isn't careful. That's what went wrong with "The Dispossessed."

It's one thing for a lawyer to tell the court that life is tough for Indians on the reservation. It's another to make the suffering a vivid presence.

Tuesday night's product struck me as under-rehearsed, over-directed, ineffectively formulated and, except for Juana Hernandez in the role of Chief Standing Bear, insensitively acted. The cast included Albert Dekker as the judge, Earl Holliman as the young lawyer, Ralph Bellamy as the government's lawyer, Conrad Nagel as an Army man, and Dina Merrill as a part Indian who pushed the case forward. Miss Merrill supplied just one of many incongruous frontier touches with her false eyelashes.

Of all the new hour-long series this season, I think ABC-TV's "Alcoa Premiere" has followed the steadiest course in the quest for meaningful stories well acted and mounted.

Thus far, its three presentations have held false notes to a bare minimum. Tuesday night's story, "The Fortress," was most resourceful in keeping a viewer on the edge of the seat.

Lloyd Bridges, as Air Force Lt. Wallace Brown, a soldier who was subjected to horrifying mental agonies by Communist brainwashing techniques in Korea and beat them back, was unsparing of himself as he threw himself into Brown's role. He made the experience a palpable one.

Unfortunately, some corny program padding was dragged in — those false notes I mentioned before — and there was some puzzlement at some of the action and accompanying obtrusive dramatic chords. But the overall impact of the story of one heroic human being's ordeal was enormous nonetheless, thanks to Bridges' portrayal.

The Chaco Train: A new long term contract calls for "Wagon Train" to resume its westward trek on ABC-TV next fall. The series, now in its fifth season on NBC-TV, will continue with John McIntire as wagonmaster. Robert Horton leaves the show at the end of the NBC-TV trail.

"Come Again to Carthage" will be presented on CBS-TV Friday, Dec. 8 as the second in the "Westinghouse Presents" series of dramatic specials. Written by Robert Cram, the play is about a man who begins to question her religious motivation during a brief visit home.

"Comedy Capers," a lighthearted series that consists of silent two-reelers starring such comedians as Bea Turpin, Andy Clyde and Billy Bevan, is being syndicated nationally.

Two Nations May Get UN Admission

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Prospects brightened today for a break in the Security Council deadlock barring Mauritania and Outer Mongolia from membership in the United Nations. Nationalist China appeared to have abandoned its intention to veto the Mongolians.

A Nationalist spokesman said his delegation did not expect to get voting instructions until just before the council meeting this afternoon to consider the two membership applications. But reports from Taipei said Ching Kai-Shek's government had reluctantly concluded it would have to change its hitherto rigid position and the Nationalist Parliament had given its tacit assent.

A double-barreled resolution covering both candidates was being considered to get around a dispute between the Soviet Union and the West over which application should get priority.

The Soviets have been insisting that Outer Mongolia be considered first. Then, if Mongolia was blocked by a Nationalist veto or failed to get the required seven approving votes, the Russians could retaliate by vetoing Mauritania.

Western delegates in turn were suspicious that the Russians, if they got Outer Mongolia accepted first, might then veto Mauritania to curry favor with Morocco, which claims the former French territory.

To get around this, some delegates suggested including the candidacies of both Mongolia and Mauritania in a single resolution. There would be a separate vote on each applicant, but if either would go down when the resolution failed to make the grade, both is voted on as a whole.

The Soviet Union's Valerian Zorin sought Latin American support for his proposal that an interim secretary-general should have seven chief aides—from the United States, the U.S.S.R., Afri-

Captured Fugitives Are Deemed Lucky

HONG KONG (AP)—Forty-one lucky fugitives from Red China, captured by British patrols this side of the Chinese Communist border, were questioned by police today preparatory to facing charges of illegal entry.

They probably will be cautioned by the court, fined nominally or set free, and then take up residence in this British colony.

Several hundred other fugitives—more than 1,000 according to some estimates—who joined the 41 in a mass break for freedom Monday, face a far grimmer fate. They were captured by Chinese Communist patrols on the Communist side of the border.

ca. Latin America, Eastern Europe, Western Europe and Asia. Latin-American delegates were reported split over the proposal. Many held with the U.S. view that there should be only five aides—from the United States, the U.S.S.R., Africa, Latin America and Western Europe.

Reinstates Mailman With Regret

WASHINGTON (AP)—Postmaster General J. Edward Day has reinstated a Georgia Negro leader as a mailman but the way he announced it has drawn bitter criticism from the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

The NAACP's general counsel, Robert L. Carter, called Day's statement "vicious, insulting and misleading." He said "it raises grave doubt as to his suitability for the Cabinet post he holds."

The barred words Tuesday concerned the controversial case of W. W. Law, head of the Georgia branch of the NAACP. He was dismissed from his postal job in Savannah on charges including extended absences from his mail route.

Day announced he was reinstating Law "with great regret" and described him as an "unsuitable employee." Day added he did not want "to provide further ammunition for the determined publicity campaign to make a martyr of Law."

Day took note of charges by NAACP officials that Law's activities as a NAACP leader had been responsible for his dismissal.

He said he "would not want a person with Law's record of conduct delivering mail to my family's home. Some of Mr. Law's partisans feel otherwise—or at least, for political reasons purport to feel otherwise."

One of the charges, the Post Office Department said, included an accusation Law had urinated on the lawn of a home on his mail route. The Post Office Department said he admitted this but said it came about because of a kidney ailment.

Law appealed his dismissal, carrying the plea to a three-member board which recommended his reinstatement. The recommendation was not followed by the post office regional director, William F. Askew of Atlanta.

In overriding Askew, Day said, "I am reinstating W. W. Law as an employee in the Savannah, Ga., post office with a severe reprimand.

"It is with great regret that I reverse the act of the regional director. However I do not want to provide further ammunition for the determined publicity campaign to make a martyr of Law."

"I must weigh the detriment to our 580,000 employees of this sustained attack against the detriment of retaining this single unsuitable employee in the department."

The postmaster general said "the action of the impartial review board, with two Negroes among its three members, confirmed that the charges against Law were by no means trivial. The board unanimously recommended a strong reprimand with one member urging that Law be fired."

Rails Deeply In Debt, in Big Trouble

By ROGER LANE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Presidents of two major Eastern railroads told nine state governors today that staggering deficits are driving the industry toward nationalization.

One of them, Jervis Langdon, whose Baltimore & Ohio railroad is $23 million in the red so far this year, said the prospect threatens "unless there is a cure or pretty rapid action by the government."

The other nationalization reminder came from Alfred E. Perlman, president of the New York Central railroad. He said regulated air and truck carriers in the long run were imperiled in much the same way as were the railroads.

The NYC ran up a $25 million deficit in the first nine months of the year.

The railroad executives said they face a real public crisis. Leading rail executives, in prepared statements, blamed "artificial handicaps" imposed by government, including what one called "constructive fraud" by some states in property tax practices.

Presidents of five major roads and the head of a regional railroad group spelled out industry problems, and recommended solutions, at a conference of 16 state governors and their representatives.

Later in the day, eight spokesmen for railroad labor organizations were slated to advance their views—some conflicting with management, especially on the question of mergers.

The session was called by Gov. Wesley Powell of New Hampshire, chairman of the National Governors' Conference.

Invited were the governors of New York, Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont and West Virginia.

"Many important lines (are) in worse shape than during the depression of the 1930s," said Allen J. Greenough, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, the nation's largest.

In the late 1930s, nearly 40 major railroads were put through the bankruptcy wringer, many of them among the 30 lines represented today.

In his prepared remarks opening the session, Greenough said, "This is not a temporary condition. It threatens not only railroad employees, customers and investors, but also the entire economy of our section of the country."

"It will not miraculously disappear. The whole problem demands prompt and effective attention."

Greenough hit on what he termed restrictive federal transportation policies and pointed to government subsidies that he said gave unfair advantage to competing forms of transport—trucks, airplanes, barges and pipelines.

Jervis Langdon Jr., president of the struggling Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, said subsidy of rival forms of transport, unless corrected, likely would force nationalization of the railroads.

David I. Mackie, president of the 35-member Eastern Railroad Presidents' Conference, assailed state property taxing practices, saying 31 states in 1957 exacted $141 million in excessive taxes from rail carriers.

"The crushing burden of this penalty is utterly indefensible and intolerable," Mackie declared.

He singled out Illinois, Indiana, Maryland, New Jersey, Ohio, Virginia and West Virginia as responsible for $53,402,354 of the alleged overpayment.

New Jersey, Mackie said, assessed rail property at nearly four times the rate of non-rail property, placing a "staggering $13 million discriminatory tax burden on New Jersey railroads."

Four of the presidents headlined that so far this year have rolled up a combined deficit of about $80 million—the B & O, Erie Lackawanna, New York Central and Pennsylvania.

The fifth making a formal presentation, Stuart T. Saunders, director of the prosperous, hustling Norfolk & Western, a coal-hauling line about $40 million in the black-

Two Jailed on New U. S. Law

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—FBI Special Agent Wallace Hoaglund says three McCreary County, Ky. men have become the first persons arrested under a new law which forbids interference with or destruction of interstate communications facilities.

Hoaglund identified the three as James William Grundy, 26, and Billy Howard Kidd, 20 both of Stearns, and Grundy's nephew, George Grundy, 17, Revelo.

The new law was passed during the last session of Congress. Its enactment followed last summer's bombing of microwave telephone relay stations on the Utah-Nevada border.

Hoaglund said Tuesday the men were accused of cutting 22 telephone wires in McCreary county and stealing and selling 11,000 feet of copper wire. The alleged violation took place last Wednesday, the agent said.

Kidd and George Grundy were being held under $5,000 and $2,500 bond respectively for action by a federal grand jury. Hoaglund said. James Grundy is to appear before a U.S. commissioner for arraignment, the agent added.

The expanded law provides maximum penalties of 10 years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine.

Picasso Turns 80 Today

CANNES, France (AP)—Pablo Picasso turned 80 today, and as far as anyone knew, the famed Spanish painter was observing the day quietly with friends.

Picasso has agreed to attend a two-day birthday celebration Saturday and Sunday at the nearby village of Vallauris.

U. S. Plans to Watch for Fallout

By FRANK CARRY

WASHINGTON (AP)—The initial fallout cloud from the Soviet Union's super-bomb test is expected to reach the Aleutian Islands late Thursday and Alaska or western Canada late Friday.

That was reported today by atmospheric radiation experts of the U.S. Weather Bureau.

The cloud contains only a small fraction of the total debris. The rest is high in the stratosphere and won't begin to come down until next spring.

The radiation experts said the cloud, loosed by Monday's blast in the Soviet arctic region, is expected to chalk up another 2,000 miles today on its west-to-east course, with the following points, among others, to be passed over today: Northern Manchuria and southern Siberia; then possibly the northern tip of Japan.

After that it should swing toward the Kamchatka Peninsula, another part of Siberia.

It should be going toward the Aleutians Thursday, possibly reaching there some time late in the day, Dr. Robert List told a reporter.

List said that it was snowing Tuesday over a large area of Soviet territory south and east of the bomb test site over which the fallout cloud passed — and that presumably some of the radioactive material was brought down faster than otherwise would have happened.

Public health authorities are geared to detect the first fallout in North America.

But they declared it is too early to forecast if it will create any significant health hazard either in the following few weeks or next spring.

A Weather Bureau scientist said it was possible the early fallout from Monday's test may even pass north of the continental United States in its first pass around the earth. It likely will extend over the entire nation in its second time around about 10 days later, he added.

There is a possibility, health officials said, that within the next month levels of radioactive iodine from the bomb debris might equal or exceed levels produced by the 21 previously announced tests in the current Soviet series.

It isn't known yet whether this cumulative total of fallout would constitute any significant hazard, said Dr. James Terrill of the Health Service in an interview.

Radioactive iodine is considered a threat because if enough of it got into a person's system, it could cause thyroid cancer.

Terrill said that most of the radioactive strontium—a potential cause of bone cancer—lost by the bomb will be delayed in falling until next spring. The strontium from the big blast will fall with the strontium remaining in the stratosphere from other tests in the series.

It remains to be seen whether the strontium from all tests would constitute any widespread hazard, Terrill said.

"It should be borne in mind, however," he added, "that even the present or expected levels of both strontium and iodine are and will be producing some adverse health effects in small portions of large population groups throughout the world."

"However, these levels of health effects will probably be below the detectable range."

Terrill said standards had been worked out—differing for various kinds of radioactive materials—to guide officials in considering protective countermeasures.

For example, the maximum standard for radioactive iodine is a daily intake of 100 micro-curries per day over a year's time. The standard for strontium is 200. A micro-curie is a measurement of radioactivity.

Terrill said the Health Service just can't say how much fallout will come down quickly from Monday's heavy weight test, or how much will be delayed until next spring.

One reason, he said, is that the Health Service does not know how dirty the bomb was in terms of radioactive fallout.

The city clerk said he didn't know what would happen if no one files.

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—

Extends Deadline on Winter Crops

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—

The state Agricultural Conservation Program Development Group voted Tuesday to extend the deadline for plantings winter cover crops from Nov. 1 to Nov. 15.

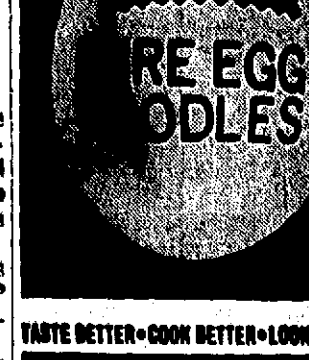

The decision affects farmers who plant cover under the ACP program with the federal government paying part of the cost.

A spokesman said county ACP

Requests for a deadline extension came principally from south Arkansas where excessive rainfall has delayed plantings.

Chapter XXII

Lise knelt beside her and held a cup of water to her mouth. Beecher looked through the first-aid kit for the supplies he would need: tape, gauze, the scissors and sulfa powder. When she finished drinking he told her to lie down.

The coveralls were glued to the hardened blood about her knees. Laura screamed when they pulled them from her legs.

Then he cland the cuts with water, dusted them with sulfa powder. Lise had prepared strips of gauze and tape. Beecher bandaged Laura's knees, while Lise went to get more water.

"Jimmy's going to die here, isn't he?" she asked him.

"Maybe we all will. Where were you two heading?"

"We planned to drive down to Dakar. Jimmy had some scheme about going into the interior and working with native politicians. He said it flattered them to have white advisers."

"And Bruno and Don Willie would fly back to Mirimar?"

"Yes," she sighed and touched the bandages on her knees. "But nothing worked out, did it?"

"Better luck next time," he said dryly.

"Listen to me, Mike," she said suddenly and caught his hand. "Give me a chance. No one needs to know I was in on it. Don Willie and Bruno are dead. And Jimmy's dying. What's the good of making me pay for their stupid mistakes. Please give me a break. I'll do anything for you. I swear it. I'll make you forget everything that's happened."

"Save it," he said.

"She cursed him as he went down the ladder. Beecher walked to the mouth of the clearing and sat down on a rock to finish his cigarette.

Beecher heard footsteps behind him, and looked around; Lise was coming toward him.

"I brought her more water," she said. "I think she's feeling better."

"How do you feel?"

"I don't know." She sat beside him on the rock. "Don Willie was my whole life. Now he's dead, and over."

"Five miles south of here, more or less. But it's done for, I'm afraid."

"We smashed an axle. Bounced into a two-foot hole and didn't bounce out. It's done for, don't worry."

Beecher gave Lynch another grain of morphine. Gradually he relaxed, and the dry moaning noise died away in his throat.

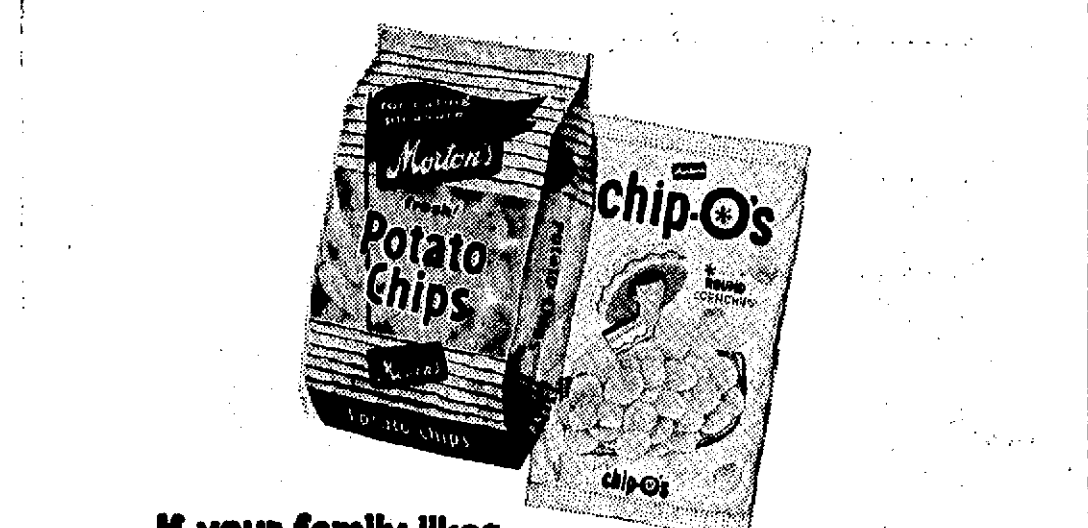

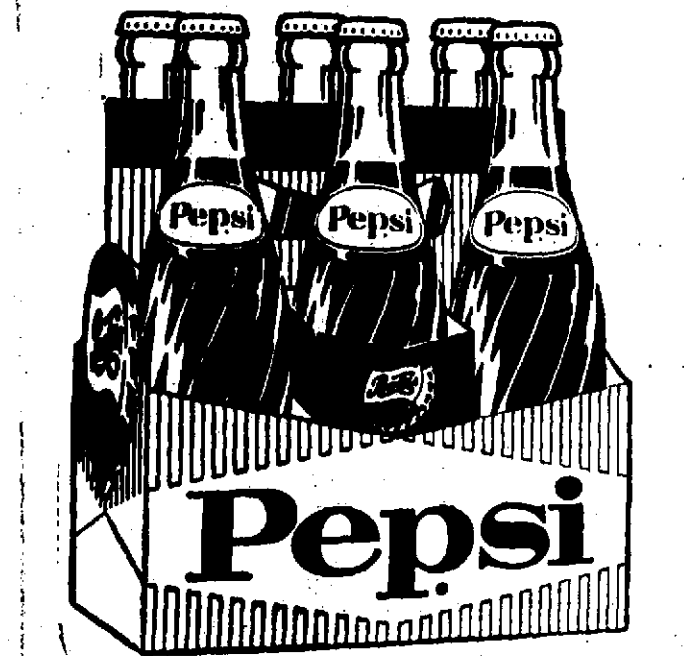

Beecher was lighting a cigarette when Lise called to him from outside the plane. He was so startled by the urgency in her voice that he dropped his cigarette and leaped to the doorway.

Beecher ran around the tail section of the plane and saw Lise standing in the mouth of the clearing staring out at the desert.

"Look!" she cried softly.

They were less than a hundred yards away, two men on rhythmically swaying camels.
